RUSTICA

BRUSH SCRIPT

This beautiful script comes from ancient Roman times. After the 5th century, Rustic Capitals began to fall out of use, but they continued to be used as a display script in titles. As it was carved into stone, it was also written with a brush.

Loredana took the script and the brush, added modern details, color and shades that gave timeless beauty to its unique strokes. Although the script is 2000 years old, we can still make it alive and attractive. We can use it for backgrounds, as artwork with hidden messages or to cover empty space. This workshop is about the brush, shading, color and design. With many different angles of the script and brush twistings, this class is suitable for all levels with broad edge pen experience.

"Loredana is a devoted freelance calligrapher and an artist from Slovenia in Europe who is blessed with a lyrical first name from Italian heritage. I have been watching her journey since her days at Calligraphy Lettering Arts Society, delight in knowing that there are such talented young letter artists who are so enthusiastic about embracing their skills and stepping outside the box. Loredana has hit the floor running, or should I say, she is literally dancing all around the world... with her fresh approaches, big brushes and passion for letters..." J. Williams., calligrapher
