

Friends of Calligraphy is pleased to present

An Artist's Journey: the First 40 Years

Lily Yee shares stories about art and life

Join us for Lily's slide presentation featuring personal stories about the people and events that have shaped her as an artist. She'll talk about her growth as a calligrapher, share lessons from the stumbling blocks she's tripped over, and discuss tips for staying motivated. Whether you're starting out as a calligrapher...or you've been lettering for years...or you're stalled, we hope you'll find something in Lily's story that speaks to you and sheds light for the journey ahead.

Wednesday, January 15, 2025 at 10 am PST

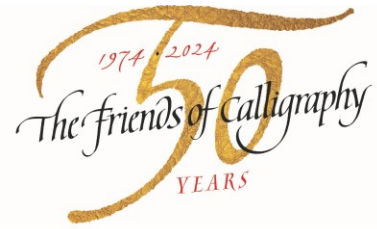

This is a free, on-line lecture via Zoom.

To register, go to the FOC website & scroll to:

An Artist's Journey

<https://www.friendsofcalligraphy.org/pages/calendar.html>

The lecture is limited to 500 participants.

I've been making marks and letters on various surfaces for years. I had an early start when my parents gave in to my habit of drawing on the walls of our house!

Based in Toronto, Canada, I'm a lettering artist and book binder. I am passionate about Roman letterforms and find ways to make marks that stretch their identity as traditional characters. I experiment with tools and materials to expand the bounds of calligraphy. That motivates me to find words that echo deeply and call for expression by combining the message with the materials to augment meaning. Every artist treads their own path. I encourage you to stay motivated in your practice and to follow your compass on the journey as a learner and lover of letters. Lean in. I look forward to sharing my story with you.

